Attention Authenticated UPC Registration Directory Members & George Laurer:

This is a little information packet about an unregistered reseller who has no regard for barcodes
- Instantupccodes.com

Laurerupc.com states the following:

Instant upccodes (Buy UPC Codes Instantly) at <http://www.instantupccodes.com/>, I have proof that they are selling numbers with the prefix 852659004. This prefix was purchased by PremiumDomains.net from GS1us and they agreed to a contract with GS1 that prevents them from reselling numbers with their prefix. Instant upccodes has also sold numbers with the prefix 852659012 which is not registered with GS1. Furthermore, although they have responded to my emails, they have not offered one bit of evidence that they own any of the numbers they are selling!

Beware; it is my opinion that buying from this company may cause you serious problems down the road. Their numbers are bogus. You may write me for details.

If you were to do a GEPIR look up of that prefix George has on his website, you will see it was purchased by Premiumdomains.net.

Of course it was not renewed with GS1, but I have attached a copy of the Gepir lookup from where it was originally registered.

|nstantupccodes.com also advertises on his site that he is selling non-registered barcodes. That's impossible unless you are GS1.

Instandupccodes.com states the following:

Non-Registered UPC Codes -

This is EXACTLY what you want and need, whether you sell online or in a retail store. We sell non-registered UPC Codes which means that we have not attached our company name in any way to your UPC number. What this means for you is that if someone searches your barcode number online or through an app, they will not see that you purchase your barcode from us. They will only see any details that you decide to provide for the product related to that UPC number. Remember, providing product details is completely optional and up to you. For products sold online, you don't need to associate any product information with your UPC number. For products sold in retail stores, we recommend that you provide as much product information as possible about your product relating to that barcode number.

Once you purchase from us, we include all of the details on how to provide this product information about your product relating to a specific UPC number.

With a little research, and purchasing barcodes from him at random times, I was able to figure out that he is selling barcodes ahead of GS1 in their current database. That is how you can sell non-registered barcodes because GS1 has not sold them yet.

Attached is paperwork that shows the following:
Who |nstantupccodes.com is.

Who Premiumdomains.net is.

The fact they are the same person.

If you do a Google.com search on his name you will see what kind of trouble he has been in before.

Here is a list of some of the random barcodes purchased over a period of time to show he is just stealing them from GS1.

852659377824

852661137850

852663444321

852665226789

852667676704

852660589209

852662778960

852664976838

852666876655

Also, you will see that if you treated each barcode as having a 6 digit prefix you will see that his prefix numbers increase by 1.

I have been around long enough to know that this is impossible to do unless you are GS1. Anyone else that does it has to be stealing numbers or making up your own numbers.
